ASSASSINATE THE FIRST ONE

"Kill the first fly." Considering that one female fly can bring into being several millions of the pest in one summer, it would seem a good job to kill that first one.

If the first and its immediate followers are left alive and the house becomes overrun, there are several suggestions for ridding the rooms of them. One course, taken from the south where mosquitoes are public menace, is to burn pyrethrum powder in a room. This benumbs the flies and they fall to the floor and can be swept out. The trouble with this is that pyrethrum powder is not sold at many drug stores in the north.

From the American Civic Association at Washington comes this hint: Drop twenty drops of carbolic acid on a hot iron; the vapor kills the flies. Sticky fly paper has both good and bad qualities. It does trap some flies. But the adhesive matter is likely to return to their fifth heads prepared to carry back to the house added quantities of disease-bearing matter sticking to their feet. Fly traps do their part but Dr. C. St. Clair Drake of the Chicago health department says the insects are cautious.

"The flies soon learn to be wary of traps," Dr. Drake says. "Those that have had any experience with them cannot be caught, and shortly a tribe of flies too shrewd to be trapped might be evolved. The insects also avoid the sticky fly paper after one experience. They are crafty little fellows and the instinct of life is as strong as in many superior beings."

Various poisons are suggested, the best of which, the doctors say, is formalin water. Put a spoonful of the chemical in half a cup of water and leave it exposed in the room and the flies will do the rest.

In passing it is worthy of note that this insect with its love for odors that offend the nostrils of man, has a strong aversion for scents which the human like. This has given a hint for still another prevention, of minor worth. Aromatic plants in rooms and at windows act as repulsives. Such plants, then have a double value in sick rooms: they are pleasing to the sufferer and discourage the fly that, with evil purpose, looks for the open window.

—From "Campaigning Against the Fly," in August Technical World Magazine.

The Versailles Policy rises to a question of privilege and says: "We sometimes wonder if newspaper men generally appreciate the old subscriber at his true value. We mean the old standby who takes the paper year after year, through evil as well as good report, knock, and, and pays his subscription regularly, just the same as he would any other honest debt."

A school teacher in the western part of the county along the Indiana line, so the story goes, in order to prevent tardiness, offered to kiss the first arrival at school. The next morning at 7 o'clock a number of young men were roosting on the fence, and by 8:30 all the small boys and three directors put in an appearance.
